The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 11-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mencke et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,712,295) in combination with Mencke et al (WO 96/38165) and Chabala et al (U.S. Patent No. 4,199,569).

Mencke et al (U.S. Patent No. disclose methods of treating endoparasitic infections with agonists and antagonists of the nicotinic acetyl-choline receptors.

Mencke et al (WO 96/38165) discloses methods of treating endoparasitic infections with avermectins or milbemycins, including moxidectin.

Chabala et al disclose methods of treating ectoparasitic infections with avermectins (column 5, last paragraph).

Therefore, it would have been prima facie obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to treat both endoparasitic and ectoparasitic infections with avermectins in combination with another endoparasitic agent such as those disclosed by Mencke et al (U.S. Patent No. 5,712,295) because the results achieved by said treatment would have been predictable.

"It is prima facie obvious to combine two compositions each of which is taught by the prior art to be useful for the same purpose, in order to form a third composition to be used for the very same purpose... [T]he idea of combining them flows from their having been individually taught in the prior art". In re Kerhoven 626 F.2d 846, 850, 205 USPQ 1069, 1072 (CCPA).

Applicant's arguments filed December 16, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Since Mencke et al (WO 96/38165) disclose avermectins are effective against endoparasites and Chabala disclose that avermectins are effective against ectoparasites (column 5, last paragraph), it would have been prima facie to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to use avermectins to treat both endoparasitic and ectoparasitic infections in combination with additional endoparasitic agent because the results achieved by such treatment would have been predictable.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
